

KENTUCKY LABOR CABINET GMMTP SEMINAR

Partners with Governor's Minority Management Training Program

In January, the Kentucky Labor Cabinet hosted 28 state GMMTP employees for a seminar titled "Work, Thrive and Succeed."

Attendees currently working in other cabinets such as Justice and Public Safety, Personnel, and Finance and Administration learned about the Labor Cabinet in an interactive manner as the executive members of the Labor Cabinet hosted this event. In one breakout session, guests witnessed a mock Workers' Compensation hearing from Chief Administrative Law Judge Douglas Gott.

For more information about GMMTP visit their website:

personnel.ky.gov/Pages/GMMTP.aspx

Commissioner Dwayne Depp from the Department of Workplace Standards and his staff provided a session

Commissioner Dwayne Depp

on the intricate steps of an investigation when a death or injury occurs to a Kentuckian while at work. Investigations pertaining to wage and hour and regulations were also discussed.

Labor Cabinet employees who are participants in the training program include Stephen Mason, information systems manager; Amy Truong, OSH compliance officer; and Nicole Whitlock, self-insurance auditor. They led sessions, providing an opportunity to practice presentation skills in front of an audience.

Labor Cabinet employee Amy Truong

"We would like to give a special thank you to the Personnel Cabinet for their work and support to make this opportunity a success for everyone in attendance," said Secretary Dickerson.

"The Leadership team at the Labor Cabinet shared with us their heart for their job and their heart for their employees. I want to come and work here!"

"Best seminar I have ever attended."

-Seminar Attendees

"We see this seminar as an opportunity to highlight the many leadership opportunities within the Labor Cabinet," said Acting Secretary David A. Dickerson. "The Labor Cabinet touches many Kentuckians daily. We employ attorneys, investigators, and teachers with careers in workplace safety, wage and hour compliance, and workers' compensation."